DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office Action is in response to Applicant's Amendment dated Jun 10, 2005 in response to USPTO Office Action dated January 10, 2005.

The amendments to claims 1-4, 7-19 and 22-30 and consideration of Applicant's remarks are sufficient to place the application in a condition for allowance as indicated hereinbelow.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 1-30 are allowed.

3. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Relative to claims 1-2 and 16-17, the major difference between the teachings of the prior art of record (Hisaki, USP 6,674,917 and Sites et al., USP5,515,159) and that of the instant invention is that said prior art of record does not teach an image generation system wherein computation for obtaining information relating to at least one of the brightness and color of a primitive surface constructing the simple object is performed based on an angle difference between a line-of-sight vector of a virtual camera and a light vector from the light source without using a normal vector for each primitive surface.

Relative to claims 3-4 and 18-19, the major difference between the teachings of the said prior art of record and that of the instant invention is that said prior art of record does not teach an image generation system wherein computation for obtaining information relating to at least one of the brightness and color of a primitive surface constructing the simple object is performed based on an angle difference between a line-of-sight vector of a virtual camera and a light vector from the light source

Relative to claims 7-8 and 22-23, the major difference between the teachings of the said prior art of record and that of the instant invention is that said prior art of record does not teach an image generation system comprising means which performs a light-source simple processing, the processing being necessary to change at least one of the brightness and color of a surface of a simple object according to the amount of light that is sent from a light source and received by the surface of the simple object; means which generates an image of the simple object based on a result of the light-source simple processing and means which rotates the simple object such that a normal vector of primitive surfaces constructing the simple object becomes parallel to a line-of-sight vector of a virtual camera.

Relative to claims 11-12 and 26-27, the major difference between the teachings of the said prior art of record and that of the instant invention is that said prior art of record does not teach an image generation system wherein information relating to at least one of the brightness and color of a primitive surface constructing one simple object among a plurality of simple objects is used to generate an image of a primitive surface of another simple object among the plurality of simple objects

Relative to claims 15 and 30, the major difference between the teachings of the said prior art of record and that of the instant invention is that said prior art of record does not teach an image generation system comprising means which generates an image of the simple object based on a result of the light-source simple processing, wherein computation for obtaining information relating to at least one of the brightness and color of a primitive surface constructing the simple object is performed based on an angle difference between line-of-sight vector of a virtual camera and a light vector from the light source, without using a normal vector for each primitive surface, wherein the simple object or primitive surface constructing the simple object are set to have a first and second color information, and wherein information relating to the color of the primitive surfaces is computed by interpolation computation based on the first and second color information and information relating to at least one of the brightness and color of one of the primitive surfaces.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled “Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance.”

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
